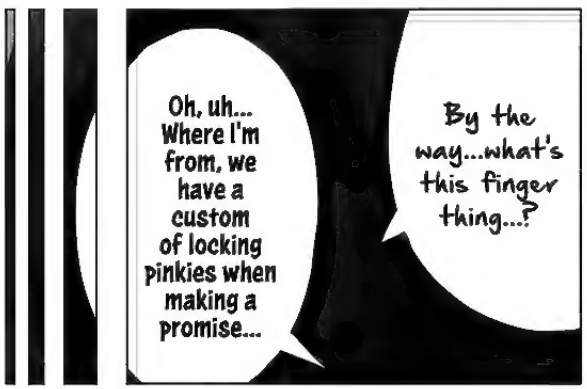
After Reszurre had expressed desire to work, I had to think if I should accept it so easily.
She's made good progress with her recovery...
But still...
I don't want her to think she owes me for the treatment, if that's what it is.
...
Res-zurre-san.
JOLT
...Yes?!
It would be easy for me to say "okay" to your request...
However...
To be honest, your body still hasn't recovered enough.
You still can't use your magic or your limbs well.
I just... can't give you any work when you're like this.
...I see. I'm sorry... I...
That's why...

LEAN
I'll make sure you're able to work someday...
And when that time comes, you can work with me.
...!
It's a prom-ise.

I had to rely on him and his kindness...
To steadily carry me forward.

He's right... I wasn't even able to take care of myself before.

But now, I need to learn to stand on my own and walk beside him...!
I... I want to improve... I'll try my best...!



By the way...what's this finger thing...?
Oh, uh... Where I'm from, we have a custom of locking pinkies when making a promise...

NOD
Yeah.

After that, Reszurre's had a drastic change in attitude. Albeit with difficulties, she started doing as many things as she could without my help, relying only on her right arm.
TWITCH
TUG
grip
I still helped her with potentially dangerous activities, but she stopped asking me for help. She continued searching for things she could do with a determined look on her face...
Don't worry, I'm okay.
I just slipped a little...
Res-zurre-san... don't force yourself...
Imagine mana flowing from the fingertips into the flower...

And so, four months had passed.
Assuming this month's recording stone delivery to Xengray (the merchant) makes it in time, next month...
mumble
Herb and material collection, mixing, packaging, accounting... and...
mumble
Coming in, Mr. Apothecary!
Mh...? Uh-huh...
Good morning! Breakfast is ready...
... Hey...
Did you not sleep the whole night again...?
CLACK...
Reszurre got the hang of using her limbs in just about three months and was now able to walk around the place with a crutch. After such a short time, she was ready to work and, as promised, I let her help out at my workshop.

I was told to wear this costume...
But what even is this?
TIGHT
My usual clothes fit me better.
Do you think so too, Reszurre--
You seem happy, huh? All right...
I didn't know your ears could move that much.
